

Based on the data in Exhibit 5, a plot was made of the log of the number of copies of initial target DNA vs. the number of cycles needed by that PCR to reach a fluorescence = 190. This shows the strong, linear relationship between these two variables. Such a plot can be used as a standard by which to measure DNA concentration in unknowns that may vary over many orders of magnitude.